State Auditor Crouch visits Warrick, Vanderburgh Co. Auditors

Kicks off state-wide tour with hometown

STATEHOUSE – State Auditor Suzanne Crouch visited Warrick County Auditor Debbie Stevens and Vanderburgh County Auditor Joe Gries today to kick off her state-wide county auditor tour.

“Keeping in touch with county officials and ensuring that we are all on the same page helps increase efficiency and accountability at local and state levels,” Auditor Crouch said. “There are 92 county auditors in Indiana, and each of them is crucial to the function of their county’s government. My goal is to find out what I can do at the State level to support and empower counties to serve their communities at the highest level possible.”

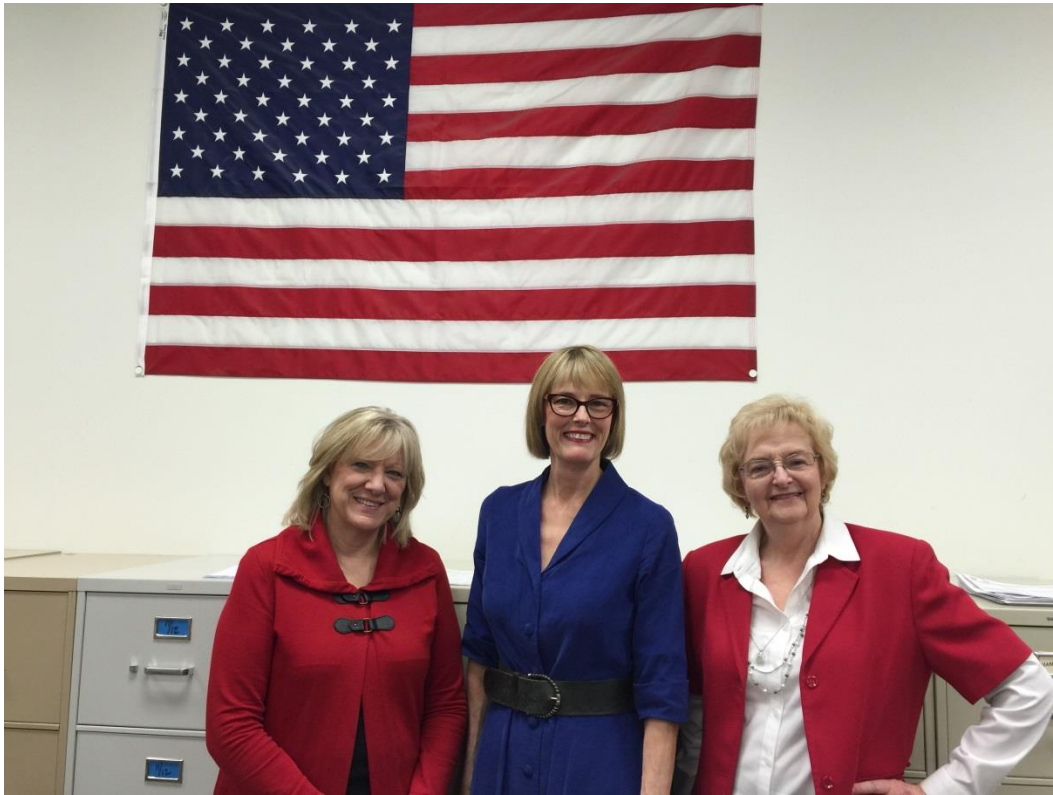

Today’s visits began Crouch’s quest to visit every county auditor in an effort to improve communication between counties and the state.

“It seemed fitting to start my state-wide tour in the same place my career of public service began 20 years ago. Much has changed, but the focus on serving Hoosiers has stayed very much the same,” said Auditor Crouch.
